I am a consumer that has bought 4 computers in the last 8 years. I am very satisfied with the software I've gotten from Microsoft and the ease with which it works. I also use AOL. If someone wants a different piece of software on their computer that is their business and no one is stopping them from adding anything. Enough with this constant harrasement of Microsoft, you had your shot. These 9 states whinning again about Microsoft are after two things, money and to get their names in the paper. They are frauds. No one is forcing anybody to buy anything. Enough, Enough, Enough. This country has alot more to worry about that what West Virginia wants. Enough! Fred Ferraro Bend, Oregon
